Your Honor:

I know that I have done a lot of things in life that got me into trouble. I know that I cannot take them back. I can only learn from them and will do my best to make sure I do not do it again. I do not intend to repeat the things I did that got me taken away from my family "the people I love so much". I had a lot of time to think and not one day goes by that I do not regret the bad things I did in my life. Not one day goes by that I do not regret the suffering I have put myself and my family through because of what I did. I took for granted many things in life. I failed as a father and a boyfriend and it tears me up inside to think that I will not be around for my son and the important years in his life. He really looks up to me. I am very grateful that he is a good boy. I will do my best to talk to him and guide him to make the right decisions and to be an honest boy so he can become a good man. I will do my best to take the steps I need to better myself and to further my education and knowledge to prevent myself from committing a crime or making wrong decisions. I have been through a lot, my family too and I cannot wait to make it up to them. I promised my son that I will do my very best to be there on that special day, my release.

It is time for me to wake up. I was busy doing things that were not important and I was chasing the wrong things. I want meaning in my life. I want to devote myself to my community, loving others and the things that give my life meaning and purpose.

Sincerely,

BRIAN ELM
